More Witnesses Examined in the Bigelow Case-What They Testified.

The Verdict in the Kilbourn Case-Other Legal Matters.

THE BIGELOW EMBEZZLEMENT CASE. In the case of B. F. Bigelow, indicted for embezziement of $2,189 from the National Bank of the Republic, the cross-examination of Mr. Bradley, the cashier, was continued. Witness stated that the checks of Mr. Stevens were dividends of a mining company, of which he was a stockholder. The check of Webb & Corkhill, for $500, was sent for col-Webb & Corkhill, for $500, was sent for collection after Mr. Bigelow had left the city. He had no personal knowledge that the proceeds were received by Mr. Bigelow. He admitted that upon the advice of the directors he had been active in this prosecution. He had published some communications in the papers, and one of them was in reply to an article that the bank was about to compromise the matter. This was denied, and on the contrary the bank asserted its intention to bring trary the bank asserted its intention to bring the party to justice.

Col. Cook asked if he had not been engaged in trying the case in the newspapers.

His honor said that this course had become the common law in this district, and related to permit its being answered.

Mr. Bradley denied that ever having said to Bigelow that he would get even with him if it took years to do it. There was no ill feeling between them. The witness was questioned as to how the deposits were made to Mrs. Houst Mr. Support, and others, but Mrs. Hunt, Mr. Ruppert, and others, but he was unable to tell.

Witherow, general bookkeeper at the bank, testified that he was there on the nineteenth of last June. He accidentally knocked the coat of Mr. Bigelow down and the contents of the inside breast pocket fell out. In picking them up he noticed that some of them were depositors' slips. Col. Cook here objected to the testimony on two grounds, that it was irrelevant, His nor overruled the objection.

The witness said that he made a list of the slips found, and they should have been under the desk of one of the bookkeepers, and he returned them to Mr. Bigelow's pocket. He then read the list, showing the name, date, and amount of deposit shown by each ticket.

Among the number was one of F. K. Ward.

It bore the date of May 29. [Slip shown.]

The date had been changed to June 21 since he made memoranda.

Frank K. Ward testified to keeping his account with the bank, and presented his book. On May 29, 1882, there was an entry in the book of $992.41. The deposit slip was in the handwriting of the witness' cashier, but there had been a change in the date to June 21, 1852. He did not know whose handwriting it was, but failed to recognize it as that of anybody about his establishment. Isase P. Childs testified to being a member of the firm of Childs & Son. (Note shown.) It was the witness' signature to the note made payable to Frank Hume, and for $732. The witzers paid the note himselfon June 10. He could not may positively whether it was to Mr. Bigelow or not that he paid the money.

Themas W. Smith testified to a deposit of $\frac{8}{2}\text{isi3},75 on June 21, 1882. Gen. T. Deering, W. S. Bond, and J. F. Kaine next gave their testimony.

The Tucker-Rice Wedding.

St. Peter's church, Capitol hill, was filled to overflowing last evening on the occasion of the wedding of Mr. John F. Tucker to Miss Susan M. Rice. The ceremony was performed by Father O'Sullivan, assisted by Father Rabbia, of Rockville, Md., and Fathers Dunn and Sullivan, of St. Peter's. The ushers were Mosrs. William Foy and L. B. Mosher. The pretty bride was attired in an elegant cos-tume of brown silk, while the manly groom wore the conventional black suit. After the ceremony the happy couple repaired to the residence of the bride's parents, on H street southeast, where a bounteous repast was served and congratulations freely ten-tendered. Many handsome presents were received, including silverware, toilet articles, hand-painted and silk-worked cushions, and numerous other pieces of value. Hanging in a conspicuous place in the parlor was a wedding bell in white immortelies, presented by Mrs. John F. Ellis, the music dealer, in whose establishment the groom is employed. Mr. and Mrs. Tucker will take possession of their house, No. 202 First street southeast, to-day, The groom is the son of Mr. John F. Tucker, sr., one of the oldest inhabitants of this city.

Hampton Girl Wins in Three Heats-Five Heats of a Pacing Race Without Result.

The first day of the fall meeting of the Washington Driving club was marked by a very sparse attendance, but the sport was very good, and well worthy of a larger patronage. The track was in fine condition. The first race was won by Hampton Girl in straight heats, she only being headed once in the race, and that but for a few strides by Blanche in the third heat. The winner is a nice-looking bay mare, and seemed to out-class her competitors.
